Bryan Moore named RSIC's permanent Chief Investment Officer.

The South Carolina Retirement System Investment Commission's CEO Michael Hitchcock announced today that he has named Bryan Moore as RSIC's permanent Chief Investment Officer (CIO) effective October 16th. Bryan was named RSIC's Interim CIO in late July after it was announced that then CIO Geoff Berg was leaving the organization to assume the CIO role for the University of Rochester Endowment.

According to CEO Michael Hitchcock, "Since assuming the Interim CIO role, Bryan has hit the ground running, bringing a renewed energy and sense of enthusiasm to the role. During this interim period, Bryan has established himself as the investment team's leader and firmly set his vision for managing the portfolio."

Hitchcock added, "We are truly fortunate to have someone like Bryan who was prepared to step in and continue Geoff Berg's great work with the investment team and to build on that success as we look towards managing a much larger portfolio in the next five years. Bryan was an instrumental partner in the development and implementation of the significant portfolio changes we made over the past five years, and I have full faith and confidence in his ability to lead the investment team far into the future."

"I'm grateful for the trust Mike and the Commission have placed in me and proud to lead such a talented team," said Moore. "RSIC's strength comes from its people, process, and governance, and we'll keep building on that foundation with a culture that's analytical, collaborative, and focused on serving the members and beneficiaries who depend on us."

Bryan began his tenure at RSIC in June 2012 when he was hired as a Senior Private Equity Officer. Since joining RSIC, Bryan has held several positions of increasing responsibility and was named Deputy CIO in August 2023. Bryan holds both the CFA and CAIA designations.

In his spare time, Bryan enjoys spending time with his wife, Katie, and their son, Hunter, as well as pursuing his passion for hockey by coaching his son's youth hockey travel team.
